

FRIDAY 19TH MAY 2017

THE MILL MESSENGER

Dear Mums, Dads and Carers,

We have looked this week at setting goals and leaving a legacy. I was struck this week by a conversation with a child that set my mind thinking. They talked about what they wanted to be remembered for when they left school. They wanted to be remembered for being kind, caring and for being a good friend. Sometimes as adults, we forget what we want to be remembered for. Is it material things, is it for hurting someone's feelings because you had to win the argument? For a child to convey such a clear message, it resonated. I thought I'd share this and ask the question; what do you want to be remembered for?

One hundred years from now
It will not matter
What kind of car I drove,
What kind of house I lived in,
How much money was in my bank account,
Nor what my clothes looked like.
But the world may be a better place because
I did something to make that happen.

Thank you to all those parents who supported our Childnet visit on Tuesday. If you missed it, it was regarding safety around technology and flyers have come home with your children. Some interesting and helpful websites are below:
